WEDDING IN THE HILLS

PICTURESQUE MARRIAGE CEREMONY IN THE LITTLE LANDERS COLONY

Bolton hall, the large auditorium of the Little Landers' colony, that nestles so comfortably in Monte Vista valley, in the heart of the Verdugo hills and the Sierra Madre mountains, was the scene of an uniquely picturesque wedding Thursday.

There the elite of the colony gathered to witness the solemnization of the ceremony that united in holy matrimony Miss Loula Barkley, a young lady beloved and admired by all for her many graces, and Mr. Earl F. Mauk of Los Angeles, a young electrician, who is making a record for himself with the Electric Supply company of that city.

W. B. Barkley, the father of the bride, was for a long time a well-known figure in this community. For some years he was superintendent of the Glendale-Montrose railroad. Now he holds the position of manager and superintendent of the Little Landers colony in the Monte Vista valley; or, as the more correct title should be, the Monte Vista subdivision of the Western Empire Suburban Farm company.

Mr. Earl T. Sims, manager of Sims & Thomas' pioneer stage line, was the best man. The bridesmaid was Miss Frances Barkley, sister of the bride. Miss Frances is an artist on stage with a highly popular repertoire of refined singing and dancing. She is now engaged in the exercise of her profession at the San Diego exposition.

Bolton hall, which is the common meeting ground of the colony, is a large, handsome building that serves as the center of church and social life for the dwellers in the community. It was beautifully decorated. Toward the eastern end of the building, where the dais stands, a large central arch had been constructed with evergreens and the tall striking blossoms of the yucca palm, interwoven with a variety of flowers and ferns, and relieved here and there with white bells. A large white bell was suspended from the keystone of the arch. Two smaller arches supported the central one and converted the place of ceremony into a miniature Garden of Allah.

Every window of the hall was a bower of floral beauty. The organ loft was decorated in similar style and the strains of sweet music breathed from a labyrinth of roses.

By 3:30 the hall was full of the friends and well-wishers of the bride and her family, and when the numerous autos had discharged their freight of invited guests at the church door, the place was full. The bride, escorted by her father, appeared, a radiant figure in the bridal costume consecrated by ancient usage—a clever "confection" of white satin, with a moderate but sufficient train; chaste silver ornamentation relieved the bodice; a long bridal veil descended in snowy clouds from a simple wreath of orange blossoms that adorned the youthful bride's hair.

Preceding the bride came a sweet young girl, Gladys Maygrove, the ringbearer, followed by two charming little girls, Constance Maygrove and Dorothy Jean Miller—all costumed in white. The flower girls strewed the bride's path with roses. Then followed the bridegroom and his best man. The procession entered the spacious door of the church and marched up the aisle to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," played by the Maygrove orchestra.

The Rev. W. H. Wieman, pastor of the church federation of the Little Landers, solemnized the marriage. The young couple knelt before the place of ceremony on two white satin cushions while prayer was offered; then standing they pledged their faith to each other, with the significant ceremony of the ring, and the words inscribed in the heart of humanity by centuries of usage.

After the ceremony the wedding guests and the principals in the event of the day were whirled back to the Barkley home, where hospitality and mirth awaited them. Under the skillful direction of Mrs. Barkley, a southern lady, endowed with the true southern artistic skill in the culinary art, a dinner awaited the guests that rivaled the supreme efforts of a Vera or a Delmonico. Along with the masterpiece of southern cooking, southern mirth and laughter rang aloud and all went merrily as the proverbial marriage bell.

The occasion was really a double event, as it was the birthday of Mr. W. B. Barkley, father of the bride. In honor of both events there was a handsome birthday cake as well as a wedding cake, and the happy parent was the recipient of presents as well as the bride and groom.

The bride's presents, which were very numerous, included all the usual

FROM THE QUAKE ZONE

MISS IMLER HEARS FROM HER FRIEND ON A RANCH NEAR BRAWLEY

Miss Marjorie Imler of 310 West Park avenue has received word from Miss Hilda Engelhardt, who with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Engelhardt, reside on their ranch, "Vista de Alba Rancho," five miles from Brawley, in which Miss Engelhardt reports news of the earthquake. Excerpts from Miss Engelhardt's letter are given:

"In the kitchen, morning after a terrible earthquake: Good morning, Marjorie! Yes, I'm still here, thank goodness! You should have been here last night at about half past nine. There was a terrible rumble that shook the house dreadfully. Even after it was over the house swayed back and forth. It came so suddenly we hardly knew what was the matter. It seemed just like some one rocking the house to and fro, with considerable force. Three times this occurred. In Brawley it shook the plaster off of the high school ceilings and wrought other damage throughout the town. At El Centro it was worse still, while in Calexico it was perfectly terrible, killing several people. We are anxious to learn if the great flume has been damaged. We have not heard from your ranch in the south end of the valley, but are hoping all is well there."

Mrs. D. H. Imler, realizing that no news is always good news, feels confident that all is well on La Verne ranch, located seven and one-half miles northwest of Imperial in irrigation district No. 8.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

On Wednesday, June 30, at 7:45, in the main auditorium at the Presbyterian church, Wm. Percival, Jr., of Los Angeles, will give a stereopticon lecture on the work of the daily vacation Bible school association in the United States and particularly the branch in Los Angeles. This is a work that is comparatively new and should be of great importance and interest to all Christian workers. The lecture in connection with the excellent views is all free and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

appropriate and useful gifts common to such occasions, besides a number of very valuable souvenirs in the way of finger rings, cut glass and silver.

After dinner Miss Frances Barkley charmed the company by her artistic singing and dancing and the Maygrove family added to the pleasure of the occasion by their varied musical accomplishments. One of the Maygroves, a little tot of eight years, played a large horn with wonderful precision and purity of tone; a sister of twelve played the tenor cornet with great sweetness; another sister about fifteen breathed sweetly on the flute and evoked the soul of the piccolo in masterly style.

Following are the invited guests: Mr. J. W. M. Burton, general manager of the Glendale-Montrose railway; Mrs. Burton and the Misses Burton; Mr. M. V. Hartman, president of the Western Empire Suburban Farm company, founder of the Little Landers colony, and Mrs. Hartman; Mr. Walters, president of the Glendale-Montrose railway, and Mrs. Walters; Mr. R. Walter Maygrove of the Maygrove School of Music, Mrs. Maygrove and the Misses Maygrove; Mr. and Mrs. Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. Barthel, Miss Ethel Campbell, Miss Aileen Cowen, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Kelchner, Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Gilbert, Mrs. Sally Mays, Mr. Sam Todd, Mr. Geo. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Barkley, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barkley, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sullivan, Mrs. May Akers, Mr. and Mrs. Pernet, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walters, Mr. Calvin Baker, Mr. Frank Trimble, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wieman and Mrs. Wieman, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Alliman, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Turner, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Revell, Dr. Hedwig Peters, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry, Mrs. Mary Henry and Mrs. Laura Pitts.

After dinner the whole party adjourned to Bolton hall, the community auditorium, where dancing was indulged in till midnight. The bride and groom will enjoy their honeymoon at San Diego and other places and will reside at Highland Park, Los Angeles.

COLONY OF IDEALS

LITTLE LANDERS COMMUNITY IN VERDUGO MOUNTAINS SHOWS WONDERFUL ADVANCE

Nestling in the picturesque Monte Vista valley, with the Sierra Madre mountains towering northward and the densely wooded Verdugo hills keeping ward to the south, the Little Landers colony presents today an ideal scene of rural peace and prosperity. Since it was founded the colony has advanced steadily. This, too, is no mushroom growth, but the natural development of a community founded on sane principles and well-thought-out lines.

Two years ago that part of the valley where the colony now stands was a tangled waste of brush and live oaks, with a straggling trail which could hardly be dignified by the name of road. Today 140 families have their homes there and the whole community numbers about 600 persons. Everywhere convenient bungalows and cottages stand in the midst of trim fences of wire or stone, patches of corn are to be seen, flourishing vegetable gardens are everywhere, and the whole community bears the impress of intelligent care and cultivation.

This hidden paradise of the hills was the conception of Mr. M. V. Hartman, president of the Western Empire Suburban Farm company, one of the large corporations of California. Mr. Hartman has established no fewer than fourteen of these colonies. They are all flourishing and those who have joined them are more than pleased that they cast in their lot with the Little Landers.

Speaking to a Glendale Evening News representative Thursday, Mr. Hartman said: "The growth of the colony has been wonderful. When we came here two years ago there was not a road; nothing but mountain forest growth and desert. There was no water. The prospects might have daunted some, but we knew that we had here a spot suitable in every way for the founding of a colony that should offer a refuge to people of a good class weary of the eternal grind of city life and the struggle with high prices. This colony is a refuge that offers such as these refined simplicity."

"From the beginning there was never a doubt of the success of the colony. The cities of the United States are full of people who long to drift back into a more natural mode of living than that they find possible in the civic environment. In the cities they are surrounded by a whirlwind of excitement and pleasures that are as exhausting to the health as to the purse. Here they find it easy to break with old habits and to live the life of peace to which they have always looked forward."

"You can imagine how delightful it is for city people to come into the circle of these impressive hills; into this balmy and health-giving air; into this association of simple friendships and inexpensive tastes and modes of living. Our people escape the large overhead city extravagances and live in prosperity. This colony is laid out on a naturally artistic plan and it has no equal in California."

"This spot is almost 2000 feet above sea level. The business center of the colony is 1900 feet above the sea level and we have residence property at a height of 2400 feet. This is from 500 to 600 feet higher than any other community in Southern California."

"There is abundance of pure water here. We have two water tunnels that supply thirty inches of water. One of these tunnels is 600 feet long. It penetrates Sister Elsie mountain at a height of 5400 feet. The second tunnel is 400 feet long. The water is remarkably sparkling and refreshing. The colony has also another tunnel in Haines canyon that is capable of developing sixty inches of spring water, but this is not needed at present."

"One of the remarkable facts about the colony is that it has grown as rapidly as it has without the aid of a trolley line. When the colonists want to go to Glendale or Los Angeles they have two auto-bus lines ready to take them at a reasonable rate."

"Our people are of a refined class. They build simple and inexpensive houses and you will find here many college graduates growing tomatoes and picking strawberries. The colony has a great future before it. In a few years this place will be full of ornamental and shade trees. The streets will be asphalted, the sidewalks laid, all those lawns you see now in the process of formation will be smooth, green, velvet expanses, where the eye will rest with pleasure. Those flower gardens will be a blaze of beauty and then we will always have the eternal hills with their mystery and their silence about us. Can

THE TROPICO CARNIVAL

CORRESPONDENT REPORTS THE K. OF P. FIESTA WAS A GRAND SUCCESS

It has been! The great street carnival given by Visor lodge, K. of P. of Tropic, has come and gone, leaving in its wake a fat treasury, much fun and merry-making and pleasant memories.

The idea uppermost in the minds of the promoters of this money-making enterprise is, "Why not repeat the street carnival; at least once a year?" From the inception of the idea until the last note of the music died away and the last light had been turned off, enthusiasm, good cheer and a jolly good time was the keynote of the first street fair given by the K. of P. of Tropic.

Early in the morning the streets were thronged with a happy, good-natured crowd who came by automobile, trolley, carriage, in fact, by every means of locomotion and transportation, all bent on seeing and hearing everything that had been arranged for their pleasure and happiness and to enjoy all of the many good things prepared to appease the appetites of inner man.

Mrs. B. F. Cook, chairman of the cafeteria and chicken dinner, assisted by Mrs. William Gould and Mrs. Geo. Howe, announced that the great supply of provisions they had collected and prepared sufficient for a regiment, was exhausted long before one-tenth of the hungry visitors had been provided with food, and yet the proceeds derived from the dinner amounted to one hundred or more dollars. George Toaxe, Frank Davis, C. C. Rittenhouse, Jr., Robert Danner, Harry Shaffer and C. C. Hapgood, the committee having the affairs in charge, moved among the vast throngs wearing happy, satisfied smiles, with no trace of fatigue or apprehension, for was not everything moving along in the most satisfactory manner? Was not everyone pleased and happy? Was not every concession from the peanut and popcorn vendor to the splendid chicken dinner, from the prizefight to the orderly street dance, all that could be desired financially?

The drill by the D. O. K. K. of Los Angeles, familiarly known as the "Dokeys," was a splendid spectacular exhibition of their intricate evolutions. Up and down the smooth street, lined by thousands of spectators, this splendid team of handsomely costumed men, in red and purple velvet, gaily trimmed in gold lace and jaunty fez, executed with automatic precision one difficult evolution succeeding another until the vast audience cheered until hoarse.

The D. O. K. K. then gave their places to the Elks' Patrol of Glendale, who in their natty uniforms of spotless white serge, with broad purple bands and jaunty caps, took their positions ready for drilling. The column composed of the handsomest, the pick of Glendale Elks, was headed by W. C. Wattle, followed by two Elks, one supporting a handsome silk flag, emblem of our country, and the other, the Elks' banner. The beautiful and intricate evolutions of this Elk Patrol, all carefully drilled by W. C. Wattle, evoked long and continued applause.

Following the exhibition drills the band struck up an air that sent a thrill throughout the throngs, and ended with a tingle in the toes that continued there until the band at midnight played "Home, Sweet Home," for the street that had been cleared for the drills, extending for one block, was converted into a dance floor and everybody danced, waltzed, two-stepped, one-stepped, tangoed, turkey-trotted, fox-trotted, duck-waddled, kangaroo-galloped, ragged, in fact, danced everything and everything was happy.

The sideshows were great attractions. There was the fat lady, weighing over 600 pounds. With all of this superfluous avoirdupois, this "lady" was the acknowledged beauty of the many attractions. Several times the "lady" was seen to slip quietly up and imprint a loud smack on a big bear hug to some of the spectators, who by the way, were present with their best. Needless to say, the best were always horrified at the donate demonstrations bestowed on their best fellows.

A cigarette fiend evoked a vast amount of wonder, amazement as well as disgust. One of Tropic's prettiest girls was seen viewing this fiend and becoming so disgusted with him and his cigarettes, turning to admire a cage of snakes—real live ones, too—in preference to a fiend who had become addicted to the use of cigarettes. This tesson contained a moral for this pretty girl, as well as to many other young misses.

The monkey show, dog show and farmyard circus received their standing room only patronage. C. H.

RACE HAS STARTED

READ THE FIRST PUBLISHED LIST OF EVENING NEWS CONTESTANTS

Today is published the first list of names in The News' great $2000 popularity contest. If your name is not included, just ponder over the fact that the contest is not yet two weeks old, that less than a fifth of the time has elapsed, and make up your mind to get a flying start and enter. If you can secure the $850 Maxwell auto in the next eight weeks you will earn the equivalent of over $100 a week. There are not many contestants actively working—the competition is not overly keen—which gives any newcomer into the race an exceptional opportunity to win something worth while.

Concentration of purpose will go far in boosting your vote in this contest. Make up your mind which prize you would rather win, and bend every energy in that direction. Thoroughly plan your campaign, call on every friend, every acquaintance; in fact, solicit every family in The News' territory.

The prizes will go to the people who secure the greatest number of votes, and subscriptions mean votes. The handsome Maxwell touring car, fully equipped, which was purchased of the Jno. A. Pirtle Maxwell-King agency, is worth anyone's time and effort for a few weeks. The $400 Schiller piano, which was purchased of the Platt Music company of Los Angeles, is on exhibition at The News office, and as for the trip to the exposition, the three $75 scholarships to the Isaacs-Woodbury Business college and the $50 deposit at the First National bank of Glendale—their value is well known.

The chance is still yours to enter this contest of opportunities if your name is not in the following list:

Maurice Braden	5,530
L. D. Eastman	5,000
Miss Virginia Graham	6,470
Mrs. Hanshue	5,000
Miss Cora Hickman	54,540
Newton McGillis	19,780
Mrs. J. C. May	5,310
Morse Freeman	45,510
Mrs. Albert Pearce	21,030
Donald Snow	6,170
Miss Ruth Wright	6,920
Mrs. S. C. Maranville	5,000
Max Green, La Canada	5,000
Miss Olive Moe, Eagle Rock	5,000

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION

The Baptist Young People's union of the First Baptist church will hold their semi-annual business meeting and social this evening (Friday) at 117 North Maryland avenue, at 8 o'clock. A good attendance is desired. All members and their friends invited.

Eudemiller presented the famous Damon and Pythias pictures and he packed the Star theater at all of the performances.

While every concession was running full blast, the merry dance was on. The music from the band drowning that of rattles and tin horns, the battle of confetti was being waged. It was truly a jolly battle and he who did not carry home several pounds of confetti, of this harmless ammunition, in his hair, hat and outer garments, must have been many miles beyond the scene of the battle.

A big parade in which the Los Angeles police band played a prominent part, was held. The line of march took in all of the principal business streets of Tropic and Glendale. By a popular vote, Mrs. Earl V. Coleman was chosen queen of the carnival, with Miss Blanche Shea leading second and Mrs. Clyde Thedaker third.

Frank Davis, secretary of the enterprise, his face wreathed in smiles, reports this morning that every one is wearing a broad, happy smile and all with one voice declare a jolly, happy time, and want the carnival repeated next year.

Prof. Judson, director of the U. S. C. college of fine arts, with his wife and daughter, were recent visitors at "the little studio" of Edward Henry Weston. Mr. Weston expects to make a portrait of Prof. Judson's grandson in the near future.

Mrs. Ben Craig and little daughter, Mary Pauline, of Saugus, have returned home after a pleasant visit at the W. A. Hough home, 128 West Laurel.

Miss Mary Jane Evans is a guest of her friend, Miss Rhea Fredon in Hollywood, where she is attending the many functions incident to the closing of school.

MRS. WARREN ROBERTS,
Treas. Glendale Festival of Fruits and Flowers.

The following letter from J. N. McGillis, chairman of the parade committee of the Chamber of Commerce, accounts for funds received and disbursed by that committee: Glendale, June 15, 1915.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones,
Pres. Tuesday Afternoon Club,
Glendale, Cal.

Dear Mrs. Jones: Reporting for the prize committee of our recent parade, beg to say that the committee collected and paid out $70 in cash prizes and paid $20 to the Glendale band; total $90. The money was collected from the public-spirited citizens of Glendale. Our committee also secured many valuable merchandise prizes from our local and Los Angeles friends. I assure you it was a pleasure to our committee to join forces with you in your efforts to make the Fiesta a success, and Glendale is most fortunate in having such a band of loyal boosters as the ladies composing the Tuesday Afternoon club. You deserve the hearty co-operation of the Glendale people.

Very truly yours,
J. N. MCGILLIS,
Chairman Parade Com.

Dear Madam: The following are the amounts paid out of the advertising and promotion fund of the city of Glendale toward the expenses of the Glendale Fruit and Flower Fiesta held May 27, 28 and 29 last:

Swanfeldt Tent & Awning Co., decorating streets by contract	$75.00
Glendale Evening News, furnishing adv. folders	27.75
Due Dromgold-Schroeder Co., cloth for car banners	25.00

No other sums whatever than those herein set forth have been appropriated for the Tuesday Afternoon club out of any of the city's funds in connection with Glendale's recent fiesta.

Respectfully yours,
G. B. HOFFMAN,
City Treasurer.

NOTICE OF PICNIC

The Sunday school of St. Mark's church hold their picnic at Griffith park tomorrow, Saturday. The trucks will be at the church at 9 a. m. Parents and friends and members of the church are cordially invited to attend. Basket lunch.

THE BELDIN COMMUNICATION

In Thursday's issue of the Evening News J. C. Beldin of Glendale published a signed communication commenting upon the Paul C. Butterfield bankruptcy case.

In justice to all parties whose names are mentioned in the communication, the editor of The News will state that he knows of no attempt on Mr. Butterfield's part to deceive the people, either by business or religious acts, and it is not the policy of The News to publish any communication that will do an injustice to a worthy citizen.

If the charge made by Mr. Beldin against Mr. Butterfield is unjust, the Evening News does not for a minute support Mr. Beldin in the rash attack.

PERSONALS

Mrs. George H. Marsh and son, Master Jack Marsh of 1645 Ruth street, spent Thursday in Los Angeles, where they were the guests of friends.

H. L. McOmber of El Paso, Ill., Mrs. W. H. Peard and daughter Wyoming, Ill., are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McOmber, East Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. LeGrand of West Third street are entertaining as their house guests Mrs. LeGrand's sister, Mrs. R. L. McCain, with her son and daughters of San Diego.

Miss Margaret Buckley, who is under study for the leading part, "Rosalind," in the new opera, "Fairyland," was a guest of Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper, 1411 West Colorado boulevard, Thursday.

Mr. W. L. Sherwood of North Maryland avenue has purchased a 1916 Reo through the Los Angeles agency and is sure having a fine time with it, according to the report of his friends.

Mr. Clark B. Kellogg and mother of Alhambra were entertained at the home of Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper, 1411 West Colorado boulevard, on Wednesday. Mr. Kellogg is to be the accompanist tomorrow at the pupils' recital at the Cooper School of Music in the Masonic temple at 3 p. m.

Among those who were invited to attend the reception given Thursday by the musical clubs of Los Angeles to the Federated Musical Clubs of the United States, now in convention in that city, were Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper of Glendale, Miss Lydia Payro of Tropic and Miss Melicent Virden of Tropic.

One of the world-known figures at the Federation of Musical Clubs in Los Angeles this week is Mdle. Rausch, premiere danseuse at the Metropolitan theater, New York. Mdle. Rausch came to New York from the Imperial opera house at St. Petersburg about ten years ago. She has been secured as the leading dancer in "Fairyland," the $10,000 opera that is being given in Los Angeles. Mdle. Rausch was a great friend of Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper of Glendale during Miss Cooper's period of study on the European continent. After the performance of the opera on Friday, Mdle. Rausch will be a guest at the Cooper residence, 1411 West Colorado boulevard.

Mrs. I. J. Phillips and daughters, Miss Bess Phillips, Miss Catherine Phillips, and Mrs. James P. Ritchie of Denver, Colo., were the guests Tuesday of Mrs. John H. C. Walker of 2074 West Twenty-ninth place, Los Angeles. Mrs. Walker entertained the members and friends of the Fort Collins (Colo.) club with a matinee musicale and garden party at her beautiful home complimentary to her sister, Mrs. Charles R. Evans, who returns shortly to her home in Colorado. Mrs. Evans was formerly Miss June Grable and is a well-known contralto vocalist of Colorado, whose beautiful voice has been heard throughout that state, as well as other western states in concert and social functions.

MALIBU ROAD WAR

The road war that has been quiet on the Malibu coast for some time, threatens to break out afresh. Constable Harris of the Malibu township says ranchers are warning travelers they must not use the coast road on the Rindge ranch. Several complaints, he says, have reached him. Constable Harris went to Los Angeles to confer with Sheriff Cline and to request the support of the officials in compelling the ranchers to desist.

The correspondent who wires that the Italians used wild buffalo in attacking wire entanglements, was doing that which in America is known as throwing the bull.

A Los Angeles evening paper soberly (it is hoped) announces that a man talked for twenty minutes after death. Doubtless it is hard for a Los Angeles man to quit talking.

It is a rash earthquake that attempts to daunt Imperial valley pluck. They relish obstacles down in that region—fairly dote on coming up through great tribulations. That district will rehabilitate itself quickly and go forward to great development.

HONOR MRS. WOOD

On the evening of June 24th Mrs. Mattie Wood of 212 North Isabel street, Glendale, answered the doorbell to admit seventy-five ladies who had come to offer congratulations and help her to celebrate her birthday. It was a complete surprise, therefore a perfect success. Her daughter, Dr. Belle Wood-Comstock, lady physician at the Glendale sanitarium, with friends, planned the affair. They met at the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Culver, and proceeded to the home of Mrs. Wood. A very merry evening it was. The older folks joined the young in the general jollification.

One of the very unique features of the entertainment was refreshments served on the Scale of Calories, this being suggested by the fact of Mrs. Wood's having been on a strict diet and having lost forty pounds in weight as a consequence. Each guest drew a number, the corresponding numbered dish was delivered to them, whether it was a diminutive piece of pie or a huge tray of lettuce. Everyone was served exactly one hundred Calories.

After this fun had subsided delicious sherbet and wafers were served. Miss Marion Hope Comstock read several of Paul Lawrence Dunbar's dialect poems and Mrs. Lubrick, a guest at the Glendale sanitarium, sang "A Perfect Day" and "Mother McCree," the last number in honor of the hostess.

As the guests departed each expressed the desire to "come again" next birthday.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wyman of 1326 North Maryland avenue will entertain the Casa Verdugo card club at their attractive home Saturday evening. A delightful time is anticipated.

Wednesday evening a merry party of motorists which filled several machines and numbered seventeen came over from Pasadena and enjoyed dinner at La Ramada.

The stork was a welcome visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ary of North Pacific avenue Thursday afternoon, leaving with them a dear little daughter, who was immediately named Helen Frances, and who weighed eight and a quarter pounds. Both mother and child are doing fine and the happy parents are receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

Mrs. Lewis Cadwallader of 1624 Ruth street entertained as her guests for the day Thursday her sister and daughter, Mrs. John Armstrong and Miss Marguerite Armstrong, of Alhambra.

TO COMPLEMENT CONGRESSMAN

Extensive preparations are being made for the banquet and reception to be given Congressman Charles H. Randall on Tuesday evening of next week. This social evening is not to be confined to one society or circle of citizens, but is for all to show their respect to our representative at Washington. Atty. Mattison B. Jones is to act as toastmaster at the banquet and chairman of the reception committee. Among the numbers on the program not previously announced is a vocal solo by Prof. P. E. Laichinger; readings by Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan. The banquet is to be held in the sanitarium dining-room at 6 o'clock and the reception in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Roumanians are said to hesitate about attacking Austria just because they have signed a treaty not to do so. Some European diplomats must regard the Roumanians as over-nice.

COLONY OF IDEALS

One of the features of the colony is Bolton hall, which is the gathering place for the community. It serves at once as a city hall, an amusement hall and a church. The colony possesses a private dance orchestra and also a regular brass band of twenty-six pieces. Every Thursday night there is a dance for the older people in the hall and on Saturday nights the young people have their dance.

The church federation of the Little Landers is a fine example of Christian brotherhood. It is non-denominational and counts among its members people from every protestant church of the United States. The services are simple, non-sectarian and non-dogmatical.

There is a fine school building in the community, a Board of Trade, a Women's club, a Colonial club for the older people. In those societies people from every part of the globe are assembled. Canadians meet South Africans and the representatives and descendants of all the warring nations of Europe live in peace and harmony.

The colony is equipped with telephone, electric light and an auxiliary pumping plant which supplies seventy continuous inches of water for irrigation purposes apart from the domestic water supply. A lumber yard, a co-operative grocery store, which is run by the colony and proves quite profitable; a dry goods store run by private parties—Dean & Co.—a feed store, a garage run by Sims & Thom-line; also another garage run by G. B. Green & Co., supply all the wants of the community.

For other, wants the auto-bus line whisks them into either Glendale or Los Angeles in a very brief time. Glendale is eleven miles distant and Los Angeles about eighteen.

In the near future, possibly within six months, construction will be begun on the state highway on the contract that will bring the road through the center of the Little Landers tract. The colonists are looking forward with much interest to this addition to their advantages.

While most of the colonists have some private income they nearly all add to that income by the sale of their products. The Poultry Growers' association takes all their chickens and eggs, giving them top prices and their squabs are sold to the dining cars of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railways. All the gardens are in first-class condition and the soil grows potatoes, tomatoes, peas, asparagus, melons, cucumbers and in short, any vegetable to perfection.

The colony is worth a visit from those who have not seen it, and as it lies on the direct road to the Monte Vista state park, the trip makes an ideal outing.

The Chinese who are smoking opium in this vicinity ought to appreciate the beauties of a free country. At home, if caught at the indulgence, their heads would be lopped off.

The only way for a jury to arrive at a proper conclusion in testing a person for insanity is to ignore the experts of both sides, or regard them as paired.

DANCING PUPILS TO ASSIST

In the piano recital which will be given by pupils of Mrs. Ann Rita Mayr at the Glendale Masonic temple at 8 o'clock Friday, June 25th, able assistance will be given by pupils from the juvenile dancing class of the Egan School of Music and Dramatic Art. Senora Matilde Perez, under whose direction these children have been trained, is a graduate of the Imperial Academy of Dance, La Scola, Milan, and has enjoyed many successful years as a teacher. One of her pupils, Theodore McGrath, who will appear in this program, will take the part of the king in "Mid-Summer Night's Dream," to be given at Eagle Rock. Another, Mia Marvin, will be the queen of the fairies and a third, James Bush, a little boy of six, who has had all of his training in music, dramatic art and dancing at the Egan school, will be given the part of "mustard seed" and will sing all the solo parts in the "Mid-Summer Night's Dream."

AT THE PALACE GRAND

Tonight is the last night of the great railroad picture, "Rule G," which pleased many last evening.

For Saturday matinee and night a great bill is offered, including the Pathe weekly news, No. 46, one of the best comedy pictures on the market, entitled "Just Nuts," and the three-reel feature, "The Wolf Unmasked." An additional comedy, "Max in a Difficult Position," tops the bill.

"The Wolf Unmasked" has a plot that holds the attention of the audience spellbound. The story in short is as follows:

Jack Wayburn and Tom Ryan, his pal, earn their living by thieving. Wayburn goes to the bank and is surprised to learn that Roy Barton, his college chum, is the cashier of the bank, whose president is Roy's father. He confides this to Ryan and tells him that he had been invited to the banker's home. Wayburn makes an immediate hit with Florence, the banker's romantic daughter. Wayburn, learning that Barton's butler has left, phones to Ryan instructing him to apply for the position, which he does. Ryan is engaged. Calling at the bank, Wayburn sees Roy receive the combination of the safe and determines to secure it. This he manages to do. He then succeeds in procuring the keys of the bank by a ruse.

That night Roy loses heavily at his club. Meanwhile, Wayburn, taking advantage of romantic Florence, induces her to consent to elope. Accompanied by Ryan, Wayburn enters the bank at midnight and overcomes the watchman. They then loot the bank. The next morning Roy, unconscious of the robbery, leaves for the bank. On strong circumstantial evidence Roy is accused of the robbery and is in the custody of a detective. He is taken to the police station, not knowing of her brother's escape. The banker is stunned when taking advantage of the detective's negligence, makes his escape. Once learns of the trouble at home, and, with Wayburn, returns. Ryan and Ryan rob the home of the banker, who discovers them. He is attacked, but receives assistance from Roy, who has also returned. The police arrive in time to arrest Ryan, but Wayburn escapes. He later returns to the house and falls into a trap laid by Florence. He escapes in an automobile, which is wrecked by a train. Bruised and bleeding, he is found by the police. Ryan, subjected to the "third degree," confesses and accuses Wayburn. The banker, convinced of his son's innocence, eagerly welcomes him back to his home.

MUCH NEEDED IMPROVEMENT

The directors of the Verdugo Canyon Water company recently authorized the laying of a new steel pipe line connecting division boxes number one and two.

The line runs through the large seedling orange grove of Judge E. M. Ross and supersedes the old concrete pipe which during the last two seasons of abundant water supply has failed to carry all the water available, bursting repeatedly when over taxed. The new line will be of much value to the stockholders of the company as it will eliminate the possibility of a break in the line and a shortage of water in the valley at some time when most needed.

LAST SESSION TONIGHT

The Tucker Bible conference, so spiritual and inspiring, will hold its last session this evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. The book of Jonah will be Rev. Tucker's theme. A large chart will be used for the first time. Good literature will be on sale. A special collection for the lecturer will be lifted.

The talks on Romans have created good interest in that important book. The natural divisions and contents of this doctrinal work of St. Paul will not be soon forgotten by all who were privileged to hear the gifted teacher. All are welcome to attend.

MAXWELL GETS THERE

Washington, D.C., May 17, 1915.
 Mr. H. B. Leary, Jr.,
 Washington, D.C.

My Dear Sir:

It will, no doubt, be of interest to you to hear from me in regard to the performance of my 1915 "25" Maxwell touring car, purchased of you in November, 1914.

I was, as you know, a novice in the automobile game. Had to be instructed in the manipulation of the car, etc., and with all my other shortcomings in regard thereto, it has stood the test, as they, of the over-seer's square.

In looking around for an automobile we looked over all the cars under the one-thousand dollar mark. Then we took up a course of asking questions of personal friends in regard to the capabilities of this car and that car—none of whom were Maxwell owners. In nine cases out of ten the answer was: "You can make no mistake by buying a Maxwell." Just how much they knew what they were talking about is evidenced by the fact that we bought one and have found that we did not make any mistake in following their advice.

What I like about the Maxwell is that get-there-iveness which it has in its make-up. Most of my mileage has been touring on the road, and I can truthfully say that I do not fear any road or any hill when I am on my pilgrimage, because I have sure given it a severe try-out and know exactly what it will do, while its speed is too well known to comment on. The Maxwell is an ideal car for a man of moderate means. Its upkeep is no more than the cheaper cars, while the gas per mile varies so little that it is hardly noticeable. In appearance and comfort it has all other cars at its price and under beaten six ways from Sunday.

With very best wishes, I am
 Yours very truly,
 (Signed) CHARLES LONG.

Birmingham, Ala., May 31, 1915.
 Maxwell Motor Sales Corporation,
 Detroit, Mich.

Gentlemen:
 I have been driving a Maxwell "25" for eight months and am still driving one at the present time, and I want to express to the Maxwell people my relation of their car.

I have driven six different cars: land, Buick, Ford, Pope, Cadillac, and find there is no make that I have ever driven which nearly as good as the Maxwell 25. The lightness of the car on tires, the mileage of gasoline, small consumption of oil, and smoothness with which it glides over rough roads, are very gratifying to me, and the longer I drive my machine, the better it runs and the better I like it.

Wishing you the best of success,

I am
 Yours very truly,
